

Continue

The distinct but interrelated concepts of "signs" and "symbols" are important in a variety of academic fields, including linguistics, philosophy, psychology and mathematics. Unfortunately, the words can mean different things in different areas of study and to different authors. In mathematics, for instance, "symbol" may refer to a variable, while a "sign" denotes whether a number is positive or negative. For the most part, however, a "sign" is some unit of communication that stands for something else, while a symbol is a unit of communication imbued with deeper and more complex meaning. A sign is simply something that stands for something else. For example, the word "cactus" directly correlates with the idea of a spiny desert plant, so the word is a sign signifying the plant. Signs are not limited to a single meaning. The sign "cactus" might refer to a specific prickly pear plant or to an entire species. The word still correlates directly, or stands for, something else. Defining Symbols Symbols are best understood as signs that have deeper and more complex meaning. Signs translate directly to objects or ideas, but symbols have something of a life of their own. The Christian cross or the Star of David, for example, do not have a direct translation. Rather, they carry symbolic meaning that can differ in different contexts. Worn on a chain around the neck, the cross might be a symbol that a person is Christian. To the person wearing it, however, the cross might be a reminder of personal faith or a means of identifying with a particular sect. This deeper meaning distinguishes the cross as a symbol instead of a sign. If you want to better understand the acronyms and short forms commonly used in messaging, check out this list of texting symbols. Knowing the meanings of these symbols can make texting more enjoyable and help you decode the messages you receive. On numerous occasions, we come across a new word and hasten to refer to a dictionary to seek its meaning. The addition of new words to the language every other day makes it difficult to keep track of their meanings, making a dictionary a lifesaver. As communication continues to evolve with changing times, our dependency on texting is on the rise. Short Text Messages (SMS), commonly referred to as a new form of communication, is a popular method of sending instant messages to our friends via mobile phones. Online chats are another medium we've become addicted to. Therefore, if you are an enthusiastic texter or instant messaging user, chances are you've come across many abbreviations used in texting. Need help decoding abbreviations, acronyms, and short forms used in text messages? Look no further! We've got you covered with a comprehensive list of texting symbols that can serve as your very own dictionary. With this guide, you can easily decipher the meaning behind various text message codes and symbols. Say goodbye to confusion and hello to clear communication! List of Texting Symbols For those who are new to texting and chatting online, deciphering the meaning behind smiley faces can be a daunting task. It can be especially challenging when faced with less common symbols like :^ (or (#). Asking for clarification can be embarrassing and imply a lack of familiarity with the latest cool language trends. Fortunately, Techspirited has got you covered with a comprehensive article that covers the most commonly used symbols for texting and chatting. Say goodbye to confusion and hello to confidently expressing yourself online! Understanding the meaning of texting symbols is a breeze! For instance, if you receive a message with the letter 'Y', it typically means 'why'. Similarly, if someone texts you 'U8?', they are most likely asking if you have eaten, with 'U' representing 'you' and '8' standing for 'ate'. The symbol :(typically denotes crying, while man running (whole body figure) O-S-> In a hurry O-G-> Pointing to self o-&-> Doing nothing ITD in the dark I - O bored/yawning 8-> person in glasses grinning evilly Sad ☹ Oooh!shocked 😱 Tongue in cheek 😬 Sunglasses face 😎 Laughing 😂 very happy, laughing >=O frightened >>o cannon firing (-.-) Zzzz . . . asleep :) Drunk smiling face :-X Big Kiss :-S makes no sense :-O Surprised/shocked :-ll Angry :-amp; Tongue-tied :- Kiss :-@ Screaming :-)) Very Happy :-). Drooling face :- . ssshhh talking very quietly :- . Hmmm... smirking :- I hypnotized! : v shouting : C v. unhappy/incredulous : [unfriendly :) laughing : - O saying 'Oh!' : - \ puzzled : - (unhappy Read: All Emoji Meanings Explained With Name & Art Symbols List for Facebook Looking to spice up your Facebook chats? Look no further! Below are some fantastic texting symbols for Facebook that are sure to add some fun and interest to your conversations. Texting Symbol Meaning O.o Confused O:) Angel B) Sunglasses 8) Glasses 3:) Devil Happy Sad @ Tongue ☹ Wink 😊 Grin -) Glasses 8-) Greedy $ $ Happy :-) or :) Happy Tears :) Heart